The Great Northwest Feared.

In charge of M. A. Berg, with C. J. Winkler as assistant, the Northern Pacific demonstration car was opened to visitors Friday.

The exhibits are well worthy of careful inspection, presenting as they do presumably the best samples of the seven States of Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon, which are crossed by the Northern Pacific railroad. Included in the specimens are some grown by natural rainfall, some by irrigation and some by dry farming. Besides a large number of specimens of grain, potatoes, apples, etc., in glass cases, more than 150 large glass jars of fruit, some of them four or more feet in height, are displayed attractively.

Potatoes weighing as much as four pounds and apples weighing a pound, peaches as large as a double fist, stools of oats seven feet tall and with 150 spears of grain to the stool, wheat which averaged 45 to 50 bushels to the acre for a period of ten years, big pears, plums and nectarines, celery three or more feet tall as thick in the stalk as a boy's leg, onions weighing as high as one and one-half pounds, spring rye six and a half feet high, salmon from Washington of 30 to 40 pounds weight, game fish from Minnesota, Montana and Washington, cauliflower from Minnesota bigger than a man's head, prize oats six feet tall and alfalfa seven feet tall, milo maize, yaffir corn, delicious celery from Washington, hops from Washington and Oregon, the leading State in the Union in growing this product, and many other things are shown.

One of the chief exhibits is a little jar of turkey red wheat, which brought to its owner a traction engine worth $5,000. This wheat won the first prize at the Minnesota land show, and averaged 39.33 bushels to the acre; weighed 63 pounds to the bushel.

The car containing the exhibits is a huge one, 75 feet long, 14 feet high and 10 feet wide. It carries its own gas plant and has sleeping quarters for the gentlemen in charge. It has been on the road for over two and a half months and will be out for three months and a half longer. The car is in Lexington today and tomorrow.

In Memory of J. J. Todd.

John Joseph Todd was born February 11, 1857, and died February 8, 1913, at his home near Terrill.

Deceased was 56 years of age, lacking three days. He professed faith in our Savior in early life and was baptized in the fellowship of Bearwallow Baptist church by S. V. Potts. After some years he moved his membership to Viney Fork church, where he lived a consistent Christian life. Brother Todd was united in wedlock with Miss America V. Finney, Nov. 16, 1884, which proved to be a happy union. His wife preceded him to the great beyond three years ago, leaving to her husband the brightest visions of the beautiful mansions prepared for them while under his affliction, to brighten his pathway to that sweet land beyond. He leaves four children with their families to mourn the loss of a loving father, two sons and two daughters—Mr. J. D. Todd, Mrs.

Hugh Murray, Seth M. Todd, of this county, and John K. Todd, of Montgomery county.

It is a ble sad thought to know that these sad afflictions shall be washed out, and if his voice could be heard, there would be no more weeping. How sad it is to give him up, although he bore his suffering with patience and said he was ready to go, and asked his loved ones not to grieve that he was going home, where there was no pain. His remains were laid to rest in Richmond cemetery on Monday, Feb. 10.

A precious one from us has gone,

A voice we loved is stilled,

A place is vacant in the home

That never can be filled.

To Prevent Extortions.

Congressman Ben Johnson, Chairman of the House District of Columbia Committee, has introduced a bill to prevent visitors to the inauguration by providing that the same rates shall prevail during the inaugural period as were in force during the year prior to February 25, 1913, and if it passes he will further endorse himself, not only to his constituents, but to the country at large.

These establishments, as well as others at the capital, have usually combined to fleece the visitors to the inauguration unmercifully, and it is reported that this time the rates have been doubled and tripled by the Shylocks that fatten on other people's necessities. As a large number of Kentuckians will go to see democracy come into its own, it was in keeping with Mr. Johnson's ideas of right for him to introduce the resolution. Its passage will further endear him to the people and those who want to see the long-desired consummation of their hopes without giving up all of their patrimony. He could not have touched a more popular chord, or one that will produce greater acclaim, and those who profit by it will honor his name and sing his praises. As Mr. Johnson is practically Governor of the District of Columbia, what he says will likely go and all of us will say "Amen."

A favorable report has already been made on the bill, which provides for a penalty of $100 for each violation, in addition to the expenses of the complainant, should he be forced to remain to prosecute the defendant.—W. P. Walton in Lexington Herald.

Loves His Adopted Home In

The West.

Payette, Idaho, Feb. 9, 1913.

I am sending enclosed a draft for my subscription to the Climax and wish to send greetings to my many old friends and relatives in Richmond and Madison county, where I was born and spent the most of my life. It is through the columns of the Climax that we keep in touch with events of the day in the old county of my nativity.

I left Richmond twelve years ago to seek my fortune west of the Rocky Mountains, and as fate decreed, I settle down in the beautiful valley of Payette, Idaho, and devoted my energies to farming and fruit-raising, in which I have "made good."

While this community is made up of people from the Mississippi valley and further East, yet only members of two families besides my own are from Kentucky, and they from Lincoln county.

This county has grown very rapidly since I came here, as most things do in the West. Where most of it was sage brush then we now have good roads on most every section line, and on half sections lines.

We have good schools, where the children are hauled to school at the expense of the public. Many churches of many denominations, telephone in most every house, with wires carrying electricity for lighting and power through the country, besides daily mail service for everybody.

I do not wish to go back to Kentucky to live again, but have a warm place in my heart for the people there, and would be glad to correspond with any who will write to me. Very truly,

L. Z. TAYLOR.

Former Madisonian Takes His Pen Hand.

St. Matthews, Ky., Feb. 12th.

Dear Sirs:—

Being a subscriber of the Climax, I notice that you have emenated into a twice-a-week edition and thinking that you might appreciate a little news from me, I will pen you a few lines.

Being Madison county born, I feel interested in her and like to hear from her splendid people. I left there the last time in 1910, and am now located at this place, where I am connected with the L. & N. as station agent and operator.

This is a thriving little town, or rather a suburb. Only one mile from the Louisville city limits, with prospects good for its being taken in by the city in the near future.

We have a bank, one of the strongest in the county, postoffice, three stores, with saloons attached, telephone, ice factory, produce exchange, blacksmith shop and soon, also churches and good schools. Land is too high here to talk about. We are in close touch with the city, in as much as we have street cars, one or two each way every 15 minutes.

We bring on the line over which the Shelbyville, LaGrange and Pewee Valley cars pass. The L. & N. and C. & O. together run 20 passenger trains every 12 hours and about the same number of freight trains.

This is a great potato country, also a good many onions are grown during the season which begins in July and ends about the last of September, with a few scattering shipments up to the present time. We have shipped from here 525 cars of potatoes, this being the largest potato shipping point in this section.

During the season we ship as many as 20 to 25 cars per day.

With every one scrambling for office under the new administration, we have a pretty busy little town.

Very Truly, W. R. FARRIS.

We have arranged for a Special Sale

On the celebrated Stearns & Foster Mattress and are offering this most Comfortable, Durable and Sanitary of all Mattresses, in selected patterns of the best qualities of Satin-finish, Dust-proof Ticking—WITHOUT EXTRA CHARGE.

Beware of so-called "Special Sales" on "Cotton-felt" or "Felt" Mattresses—said to be the "genuine kind" and offered at such ridiculously low prices as are sometimes seen displayed. You do not know WHAT sort of material has been hastily STUFFED into the ticking. From a Sanitary standpoint, it may be vile; unfit for any person to sleep upon. As for genuine Comfort and Durability, such Mattresses are utterly worthless. It don't pay to buy them.

A Waist Dream

is what the average lady of style would call any one of the fine models we are just now showing in our Waist Department. They are all voted to be beauties in appearance, and the fabrics are of the choicest. There are quite a variety of pleasing designs, and we have them in all sizes for tall or short, slim or stout ladies. Popular prices.

FEBRUARY 18, 1913

AFTER four centuries similar scenes are enacted in the streets of Mexico. Then it was Cortez, with less than two hundred men, planting an old cannon in the street and clearing the way to Montezuma's place. The shrewd young Spaniard infused into the inhabitants of that land the spirit of antagonism, creating warring factions, which resulted in the downfall of the Aztec empire. And all through these centuries that spirit of antagonism has continued its existence, until today Mexico's people are no further removed from the trail of the serpent than they were four hundred years ago. A divided nation, and warring factions almost to the point where they would see their country pass into other hands than give up this heritage that has grown heavy with age. Again this spirit of antagonism has taken such a firm grip upon the country, that once again the cannons are planted in the streets of the capital city, and amid the thunders of war the palace is fired upon and the streets are smeared with human gore. The nation is really to be pitied, and the United States could render no higher service than exercising its zoos of officers in aiding that divided people to lay down their arms and join in a united effort to build up their country that has had more than two hundred years of disintegrating, internal war. It is a self evident fact that neither Madero nor Diaz can preside over the country in the peaceful manner desired, and a new man should be sought out and elected to fill the presidential chair.

MEMBERS of the inaugural committee are beginning to show signs of nervousness over the event of the problem presented by the unexpected growth of the procession of March 4th, which promises to be the longest inaugural parade that ever passed down Pennsylvania avenue. Although more than a half million men in the line already have been received. It is feared that further requests will make the band of marching men and horses hard to direct. The civic portion of the parade alone will aggregate 20,000 men, according to a partial list drawn up by the committee. This division is being augmented every day, and by inauguration day may be doubled. To date it is announced that the State of Ohio has outdone all others in sending representatives for the procession and the inaugural ceremonies. Formal notification was received by the committee that the entire Ohio Legislature will adjourn for several days and go to Washington in a body.

The exploits of Captain Scott, of the British Navy, whose death in the South Pole regions has just been reported, is illustrative of the character of the Anglo-Saxon. Captain Scott sailed for the South Pole (his second expedition) in 1910. He made the polar dash over the high frozen plateau that environs the pole, but failed to reach the goal. Returning to his source of supplies, he sent word out that he would not return to civilization, but would make another attempt. The fact that he and the majority of his large party perished is deplorable. Yet he has left behind him an imperishable record for holding to his purpose until that purpose was accomplished. It is just that element in the Anglo-Saxon character which first put England in the position as the first nation of the world, and which has resulted in her offspring, America, attaining later to the same position.

Her friends, and they are many, regret Miss Goldie Perry's misfortune in getting burned in a natural gas explosion in her home at Winchester. Her burns are more painful than serious and it is generally hoped that her sufferings have ceased here and that the unpleasant incident will soon be forgotten by the splendid young newspaper woman.

An income tax amendment to the constitution of the United States would add $100,000,000 to the revenue of the country, according to figures compiled by Representative Cordell Hall, of Tennessee. The details of the bill, to be presented to Congress are being worked out by Mr. Hall, who is a member of the Ways and Means committee.

HENRY WATKINSON, editor of the Courier-Journal, dean of American journalism and the ablest editorial writer in the United States, celebrated his 73rd birthday Sunday. May the grand old Roman live to celebrate many more such occasions and continue to wield his trenchant pen in defense of home and native land.

JUDGE ALLIE W. YOUNG is doing a splendid work as special judge of the Breathitt circuit court. He is cleaning up things generally and fighting treason in the United States. A pity it is that the judge had not been sent to that lawless section sooner.

DENNY GRAVES, a 14-year old Carlisle boy, is a sure enough bootlegger. When arrested on alighting from a Paris train at his home, it was found that he had a gallon of whiskey in bottles in the legs of a large pair of boots he wore.

ONLY fifteen days more of the republican administration. Having stood the ordeal for that many years, we ought to be able to put up with it for a couple of weeks longer, as hard as it may be.

Fine Weather.

Mortal man never saw finer weather than we are now enjoying. The S. H. weather does not indicate it.

Lecture To-night.

Don't forget the free lecture at the Court-House tonight. Mr. Strickler, a noted Christian Scientist, will deliver. We are extended a cordial invitation to attend.

Adjudged Insane.

Mr. Mark Tudor, who has been conducting a nursery business some six miles south-west of this city, was adjudged insane by a jury in Judge Shackelford's court this morning and declared to be of unsound mind. He was ordered to the asylum.

He never lied

Listen!

We've got sense enough to know that Success in business goes with honest dealing.

George Washington has the greatest reputation of any American, because he never lied. Truthfulness and fearlessness made him the leader of our nation in war and in peace. George the Third caused the separation of the United States from England because he demanded an unjust tax. In our business we have followed George Washington—not George III.

We have never misrepresented anything we have sold and have never been afraid to carry upright merchandise, and never asked unjust prices. We will sell you ten dollars worth for ten dollars.

President Madero was said to have been pleased with the reply of President Taft, disclaiming any present intention to land troops in Mexico.

COMPLIMENTARY OF MR. BYRON

It is not often that the daily papers of the State take interest enough in local political battles to comment editorially on the fitness or unfitness of aspirants for office. There are exceptional cases, however. Saturday the Lexington Herald contained one of these exceptional cases. In speaking of Hon. W. A. Byron, of Brooksville, Ky., who formerly represented the Twenty-first Senatorial district in the State Senate the Herald paid Mr. Byron a tribute accorded to few men. In part that paper said: "We think it fortunate to have Mr. Byron offer his services so that the people of the State may have the benefit of his experience and ability in the State Senate."

The members of both branches of the Legislature should be men of the best ability, the highest character, and the widest experience who can be induced to serve, and it is because of this fact that we express our pleasure that Mr. Byron has offered himself for the Senate and hope that he will be elected.

Mr. Byron was a member of the State Senate in 1902, and was selected by Gov. McCreary to place his name before the democratic caucus for United States Senator, which nomination was confirmed by the Legislature. His speech on that occasion won for him a high reputation as an orator, which was further augmented by his masterly address on "Kentucky Day" at the World's Fair at St. Louis in 1904. Senator Byron is a lawyer of ability and served with distinction in the State Senate with that distinguished and scholarly gentleman, the late and lamented Major Curtis P. Burman, of this city. He was also a warm friend of that prince of orators, Hon. Richard W. Miller, of this city, now deceased. For more than two years Mr. Frank Leslie Russell, of Richmond, who is now "working" at the law trade, was associated with Senator Byron in business, and a deep and abiding friendship still exists between them. Mr. Byron and his estimable wife have been visitors to our city, and the Senator has many friends and acquaintances among us who wish him the success in his race which he so richly deserves.

Store Closed ALL DAY Friday, February 14

The Time is Short, Hence the Prices Will Be Extremely Low

You have the word of J. S. Stanifer that this is something more than an ordinary sale. The reason is the necessity for reducing the stock a great deal quick in order that we can carry out some contemplated changes in our business without delay. The time is short—quick action is what we want and must have—hence prices will be extremely low—probably the lowest you have known in years. Don't doubt—investigate the truth of this statement. Don't hesitate—come quick and find out that this is the Greatest Money-Saving Opportunity of the Times

The store will be closed all day Friday, February 14, to enable us to get the goods all marked down to Big Ben Bargain prices and rearrange the stock. When the sale opens at 9 a. m. Saturday, February 15, everything that could be done to make the prompt and satisfactory handling of the crowds possible will be done. We will have plenty of good, competent trustworthy clerks who will take pains in seeing that you are satisfactorily served. Everything will bear a ticket with the sale price marked in plain figures, and this will be the lowest price ever quoted on an article of equal worth. $15,000.00 worth of goods must be sold. There is only one way to do it—make the prices so ridiculously low that people will come from far and near and supply not only their immediate needs, but future needs for many months to come as well.

After four centuries similar scenes are enacted in the streets of Mexico. Then it was Cortez, with less than two hundred men, planting an old cannon in the street and clearing the way to Montezuma's palace. The shrewd young Spaniard infused into the inhabitants of that land the spirit of antagonism, creating a feeling of hostility, which resulted in the downfall of the inhabitants and making himself master of the country. And all through these centuries this spirit of antagonism has continued its existence, until today Mexico's people are no further removed from the trail of the serpent than they were four hundred years ago. A divided nation, and warring factions almost to the point where they would see their country pass into other hands than give up this heritage that has grown heavy with age. Again this spirit of antagonism has been such a firm grip upon the country, that once again the cannons are planted in the streets of the capital city, and amidst the thunders of war the palace is fired upon and the streets are smeared with human gore. The nation is really to be pitied, and the United States could render no higher service than exercising its good offices in aiding that divided people to lay down their arms and join in a united effort to build up their country that has had more than two hundred years of disintegrating influences. It is a sad sight to see that neither Madero nor Diaz can preside over the country in the peaceful manner desired, and a new man should be sought out and elected to fill the presidential chair.

Members of the inaugural committee are beginning to show signs of nervousness over the event of the problem presented by the unexpected growth of the procession of March 4th, which promises to be the longest inaugural parade that ever passed down Pennsylvania avenue. Although more than a half month off, requests for places for fifty thousand men in the line already have been received. It is feared that further requests will make the band of marching men and horses hard to direct. The civic portion of the parade alone will aggregate 20,000 men, according to a partial list drawn up by the committee. This division is being augmented every day, and by inauguration day may be doubled. To date it is announced that the State of Ohio has outdone all others in sending representatives for the procession and the inaugural ceremonies. Formal notification was received by the committee that the entire Ohio Legislature will adjourn for several days and go to Washington in a body.

The exploit of Captain Scott, of the British Navy, whose death in the South Pole regions has just been reported, is illustrative of the character of the Anglo-Saxon. Captain Scott sailed for the South Pole (his second expedition) in 1910. He made the polar dash over the high frozen plateau that environs the pole, but failed to reach the goal. He turned to his source of supplies, he sent word out that he would not return to civilization, but would make another attempt. The second time he succeeded. The fact that he and the majority of his large party perished is deplorable. Yet he left behind him an imperishable record for holding to his purpose until that purpose was accomplished. It is just that element in the Anglo-Saxon character which first put England in the position as the first nation of the world, and which has resulted in her offspring, America, attaining latterly to the same position.

His friends, and they are many, regret Miss Goldie Perry's misfortune in getting burned in a natural gas explosion in her home at Winchester. Her burns are more painful than serious, and it is generally hoped that her sufferings have ceased and that the day is not far off when she will be able to resume her place in the splendid young newspaper woman.

As income tax amendment to the constitution of the United States would add $100,000,000 to the revenue of the country, according to figures compiled by Representative Correll of Lexington. The details of the bill to be presented to Congress are being worked out by Mr. Hall, who is a member of the Ways and Means committee.

HENRY WATERSON, editor of the Courier-Journal, dean of American journalism and the ablest editorial writer in the United States, celebrated his 72nd birthday Sunday.
